

SQL	PL/SQL
(i) SQL (Structured Query language) is used to manage database operations	PL/SQL is the procedural language is the extension to the non-procedural SQL.
(ii) It tells the database what to do and not how to do.	It tells database how to do things.
(iii) SQL is a non-procedural language.	PL/SQL is a Procedural language.
(iv) SQL is used to code queries DML and DDL statements.	PL/SQL is used to code program blocks, functions, Procedures.
(v) SQL statements can be embedded within a PL/SQL program.	PL/SQL can not be embedded within a SQL statement.
(vi) There is no provision of error handling in SQL.	There is a provision for error handling.